

First Fall Semester			First Spring Semester
Course		Credits	Course		Credits
ENG 101*	[For General Education: ENG 101]	*	PHI 202	Apologetics	3
Second Fall Semester			Second Spring Semester
Course		Credits	Course		Credits
COM 302	Writing for Mass Communication	3	ENG 304(e) or ENG 306(o)	Advanced Writing or Technical and Scientific Writing	3
ENG 303(o) or ENG 305(e)	Professional Writing or Creative Writing	3	ENG 330(o) or elective	Introduction to Language and Linguistics or elective	3
Third Fall Semester			Third Spring Semester
Course		Credits	Course		Credits
ENG 335(e); otherwise elective	Literary Criticism; otherwise, literature elective	3	ENG 304(e) or ENG 306(o)	Advanced Writing or Technical and Scientific Writing	3
ENG 303(o) or ENG 305(e)	Professional Writing or Creative Writing	3	ENG 330(o) or elective/ internship	Introduction to Language and Linguistics or elective/ internship	3
Fourth Fall Semester			Fourth Spring Semester
Course		Credits	Course		Credits
ENG 335(e); otherwise elective	Literary Criticism; otherwise, literature elective	3	[See schedule.]	Elective or internship	3
ENG 498 otherwise elective	Senior thesis	3

* ENG 101 is a General Education course worth taking at first opportunity, though it does not count toward the major. Express your interest in the Writing Track to a member of the English faculty at your earliest opportunity.

** Collateral courses offered by other departments are subject to those departments' scheduling. As of this plan's publication, PHI 102 has been scheduled fall semesters and PHI 202 spring semesters. PHI 102 and PHI 202 fulfill the same requirement.

*** As of this plan's publication, COM 302 has been offered fall semesters.

(o) Offered in odd years

(e) Offered in even years

Students are encouraged to take as many electives as their schedules permit. Students should consult with their major advisor for advice on which electives are likely to be offered in upcoming semesters.